Organized by:

DEPARTMENT OF SANSKRIT & PHILOSOPHY

Samsi College, Samsi, Malda

In Collaboration with

IQAC, SAMSI COLLEGE

- About Samsi College

Samsi College, established on August 25, 1968, is the second-oldest higher education institution in Malda, West Bengal. Initially, classes began at Samsi Agril High School before relocating to its current site in Kandaran, a historically significant location. The college is recognized by the UGC under sections 2(f) and 12(B) of the UGC Act, 1956, and is affiliated with the University of Gour Banga. Accredited with a 'B' grade by NAAC in 2017, the college spans 13.69 acres in a peaceful, green environment. It has well-equipped facilities, including hostels, a playground, and a pond for pisciculture. Samsi College offers undergraduate programs in arts and commerce, with departments like Bengali, English, Philosophy, Sanskrit, History, Sociology, Political Science, and Geography. The institution focuses on academic excellence, holistic student development, and fostering communal harmony. With over 8,000 students, it plays a crucial role in providing quality education to the region.

- About Indian Knowledge System:

The Indian knowledge system is an ancient and rich tradition that encompasses various fields of study, including philosophy, mathematics, astronomy, medicine, and literature. India has made significant contributions to the world, such as the concept of zero, the decimal system, and the Pythagorean Theorem. The Indian knowledge system is rooted in the Vedas, Upanishads, and other ancient texts, which explore the nature of reality, consciousness, and human existence. The system emphasizes the importance of critical thinking, inquiry, and debate, as seen in the works of ancient Indian philosophers like Nagarjuna and Adi Shankara. The Indian knowledge system has had a profound impact on global thought, influencing fields like mathematics, science, and philosophy. Its emphasis on holistic learning, spiritual growth, and self-realization continues to inspire scholars and seekers worldwide.
